Does the government offer free solar panels?

The government does not have any programs that offer totally free solar panels. However, several state and federal government programs can help you access solar energy equipment with lower upfront costs. These tax credits and incentives can reduce solar installation costs, making solar energy more accessible.

Are 'free' solar panels a good idea?

Companies often offer "free" solar panels through leases or power purchase agreements (PPAs), where they install and maintain the panels at no upfront cost. "Free" solar panels can result in initial savings on your energy bills, but in the long run, the savings may not be as significant as owning your solar panels outright.

Do low-income solar programs offer free solar panels?

Low-income solar programs don't typically provide completely free solar panels, but they can greatly reduce installation costs. Most of the programs provide rebates or grants to cover the majority of rooftop solar installation costs for qualified applicants, but there may still be some costs or payments required.

Are free solar panels a scam?

Many other "free" or "no-cost" solar programs are outright scams. Tax credits and other incentives can reduce the upfront costs of going solar without committing you to unfavorable terms -- just make sure they're legitimate. Can you get free solar panels?

What is a 'free solar panel' offer?

While "free solar panel" offers are common, that's usually not the whole story. Often, it's actually a solar lease or power purchase agreement with $0 down, meaning "free" only lasts until the first monthly payment is due. Learn more about these claims.

Just as there's no such thing as a free lunch, there's no such thing as free solar panels. Going solar through a company making "free solar" claims could instead reduce your long-term return on solar panels and perhaps worse, sour you on the idea of clean energy altogether.

More often than not, marketers using the ruse of free solar panels are trying to get you to sign a solar lease or power purchase agreement. Although these solar financing arrangements can increase your energy costs, they offer far less savings potential than solar ownership, and certainly shouldn't be considered free.
