

Why do energy storage systems need special fuse inserts?

More energy storage systems are installed globally every day. Present-day battery systems often reach power outputs of several hundred MWh. That requires advanced protection using special fuse inserts. They have to dramatically reduce the current in response to a short circuit and interrupt it very quickly as well.

What is a Bussmann battery storage fuses?

Eaton's Bussmann series battery storage fuses are specifically designed for the protection of batteries and battery systems. They are capable of interrupting low overcurrents, which are associated with faulty battery storage systems. Why do batteries need fuses?

Modern-day battery and energy storage systems place huge demands on fuses. Constantly rising power levels at maximum DC voltages of 1500 V can generate short-circuit currents of several hundred kiloamperes. Another issue relates to load profiles produced by a wide variety of loading and unloading cycles.

What is a SIBA fuse?

SIBA has decades of experience with fuse solutions for power electronics and rail traction systems. It thus has the ability to effectively protect complex interactions between battery and mains circuits. The new fuse inserts have been tested for a rated breaking capacity in excess of 100 kA and are available in various body types. Any questions?

Does Siba have a full-range fuse insert?

SIBA already has a number of products that meet this standard in its portfolio. In addition to its well-known back-up fuses that exclusively provide short-circuit protection, SIBA now also has a new family of full-range fuse inserts that respond to overload currents as well.
