Gateway Energy Storage, currently at 230 MW and on track to reach 250 MW by the end of the month, follows another LS Power battery project, Vista Energy Storage in Vista, California, which has been operating since 2018 and was previously the largest battery storage project in the United States at 40 MW.

At present, storage systems are not yet very widespread on sites and large complexes, partly due to the still high investment costs. Although the cost-effectiveness of storage systems cannot always be taken for granted, owners who operate their integrated energy solutions based on renewable sources and with storage systems are already reaping the benefits.

The large-scale grid-connection of wind power has brought new challenges to safe and stable operation of the power system, mainly due to the fluctuation and randomness wind power output (Yuan et al., 2018, Yang Li et al., 2019). To mitigate the impact of new energy sources on the grid, it is effective to incorporate a proportion of energy storage within wind farms.

The power generation site is operated by the local utility company Energie Wasser Bern (EWB) and contains a combined-cycle plant, waste-to-energy plant and wood-fired power station for electricity and heat production. For the pilot heat storage system an exploration well, ~ 500 m deep will be drilled to reach the Lower Freshwater Molasse USM.
