Pixelated Moon Photo once on AS3 - posted in Lunar Observing and Imaging: Hey Yall, So I finally get my first ZWO 071 MC Pro dedicated astrocam and load the images onto registax (that has never given me an issue when I used my DSLR) and now it crashes every time I hit Align or if I get lucky to get to Stack. So then I load them on at AS3 and I get this ...

A one-pixel Moon is about as extreme an example of undersampling as you could ask for. A better sampled moon shows us some surface features. [credit, Richard S. Wright Jr.] Now, let's take a look at a more highly sampled Moon image, one with a smaller pixel scale. We can see the familiar features we want. We can even zoom in a bit to see more ...

Artist and designer Josh Worth has created a great web page that actually answers this question - a tediously accurate map of the Solar System. He scaled the Moon to only one pixel (the radius of the Moon is 1,737 km / 1079.322 mi) and put the planets and other astronomical bodies such as the Kuiper Belt objects accordingly.
